UPCOMING DEADLINES

Honors Study Abroad Awards

Fall Application Cycle for Spring 24 Programs

Due: October 1, 2023 | 11:59pm

The University Honors Program will offer up to 4 study-abroad awards for Core and Disciplinary Honors students in spring 2024 (Note: a separate application cycle will take place for for summer 2024 programs and will be due in spring 2024). Preference will be given to applications for 5 particular study-abroad programs that Honors and the Office of International Education have designated as meeting Honors outcomes. Larger awards will be given to applicants accepted to those programs – usually $1500 for preferred programs and $750-1000 for non-preferred programs.

Find out about the honors preferred programs and apply in the Study Abroad Portal.

HONORS TIP

Make sure to save your classwork!

If you do not already, we suggest making a OneDrive file (or another storage system that you prefer) for all the work you submit in your classes, from now till you graduate. While you're creating a filing system, we also recommend creating a folder for work you're involved with outside of classes - e.g. publicity you make for a student org, stuff you do for an internship or job, Marquette WIRE work, pictures of theater performances you're in, etc...

Why save your work?

- Some classes ask you to submit a portfolio of work from multiple classes and experiences, and you'll have it easily browsable in one place.
- You might want to build on work from an earlier class, and having easy access to your prior work can save a ton of time and give you great ideas.
- When you need letters of recommendation, it can be extremely helpful to send a piece of work you're proud of from a class you took with the letter writer, to jog their memory and give them something concrete to draw on. This can be especially useful after you've graduated!
