(NOTE: Company or other forms CANNOT be substituted for this form. U.S. Government employees whose work is not subject to copyright may so certify by signing Part B below.)

The undersigned, desiring to publish the above paper in a publication of the AACC or cosponsored by the AACC, hereby transfer their copyrights in the above paper to The American Automatic Control Council, known as the AACC.

1. Retain all proprietary rights other than copyright, such as patent rights.
2. Refuse all or portions of the above paper in other works.
3. Reproduce, or have reproduced, the above paper for the author's personal use or for company use provided that (a) the source and AACC copyright are indicated, (b) the copies are not used in a way that implies AACC endorsement of a product or service of an employer, and (c) the copies per se are not offered for sale.
4. Make limited distribution of all or portions of the above paper prior to publication.
5. In the case of work performed under U.S. Government contract, the AACC grants the U.S. Government royalty-free permission to reproduce all or portions of the above paper, and to authorize others to do so, for the U.S. Government purposes.

1. The consent of the first-name author be sought as a condition in granting republication permission to others.
2. The consent of the undersigned employer be obtained as a condition in granting permission to others to reuse all or portions of the paper for promotion or marketing purposes.

Information for Authors

AACC POLICY

Thank you for your interest in the AACC. As you know, the AACC distributes its technical publications throughout the world, and it is necessary to translate and abstract its publications, and articles contained therein, for inclusion in various compendiums and similar publications, etc. When an article is submitted for publication by the AACC, the AACC understands that its acceptance of the article implies that the AACC has the rights to do all of the things it normally does with such an article.

In connection with its publishing activities, it is the policy of the AACC to own the copyrights in its technical publications, and to the contributions contained therein unless other arrangements have been made, in order to protect the interests of the AACC, its authors and their employers, and at the same time to facilitate the appropriate re-use of this material by others.

The new United States copyright law requires that the transfer of copyrights in each contribution from the author to the AACC be confirmed in writing. It is therefore necessary that you execute either Part A - Copyright Transfer Form or Part B - U.S. Government Employee Certification on the reverse side of this sheet and return it to the Editor (or person who supplied this sheet) as promptly as possible.

AUTHOR/COMPANY RIGHTS

If you are employed and you prepared your paper as a part of your job, the rights to your paper initially rest with your employer. In that case, when you sign the copyright transfer form, we assume you are authorized to do so by your employer and that your employer has consented to all of the terms and conditions of that form. If your employer has not authorized you to sign the form yourself, it should be signed by someone so authorized.

NOTE RE: RETURNED RIGHTS: Just as the AACC now requires a signed copyright transfer form in order to do "business as usual," it is the intent of this form to return rights to the author and employer so that they, too, may do "business as usual." If further clarification is required, please contact the Publications Chair of the American Control Conference.

JOINT AUTHORSHIP

For jointly authored papers, only one signature is required, but we assume all authors have been advised and consent to this publication.

U.S. GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES

Authors who are U.S. Government employees are not required to sign the Copyright Transfer form (Part A), but any co-authors outside the Government are.

Part B of the form is to be used instead of Part A only if all authors are U.S. Government employees and prepared the paper as part of their job.

NOTE RE: GOVERNMENT CONTRACT WORK: Authors whose work was performed under a U.S. Government contract but who are not Government employees are required to sign Part A - Copyright Transfer Form. However, item 5 of the form returns reproduction rights to the U.S. Government when required even though the AACC copyright policy is in effect with respect to the reuse of material by the general public.

Thank you for your prompt cooperation.
