

Tom Ganey Receives Award

In a ceremony held on Thursday, April 14, Tom Ganey, who also recently was promoted to Director of Facilities Planning, Design and Construction within Administration, was named the administrative recipient of the 2004 Excellence in University Service Award.

In comments taken from nominations for Tom, many individuals in the Marquette community stated that "Tom's easy, yet businesslike manner allows him to work equally well with architects, construction crews, faculty and staff, alike." Another nominator wrote that Tom is "energetic, enthusiastic, and scrupulously honest in his dealings with others and is a truly outstanding representative of Marquette University."

Congratulations, Tom.

Public Safety Gets New Roll Call and Training Room

A new roll call and training room in the Public Safety office has been constructed and became operational in April. This expanded space was needed to conduct training, as well as hold meetings and other related activities, along with the daily shift briefings.

The room is equipped very similar to the Smart Classrooms campus-wide that include a data projector, audio/visual equipment and a dedicated computer. The room can be used for all forms of in-service training, including defense and arrest tactics instruction.
