ADVERTISING (August 2006; Revised 2012)
At the completion of the Advertising major, the graduate is able to:

1. Apply the principles of primary and secondary research to advertising situations.

2. Create effective integrated marketing communication plans using fundamental planning components that include situation analysis, audience profile, objectives, strategies, tactics and evaluation.

3. Create effective ads for a targeted audience across various media.