PHILOSOPHY (August 2006; May 2009)
At the completion of a Philosophy major, the graduate is able to:

1. Employ correct principles of reasoning (logic) in philosophical analysis.

2. Compare and contrast a range of philosophical positions on a philosophical problem.

3. Defend a philosophical position on a philosophical problem.

4. Analyze philosophical problems within a selected track (History of Philosophy, Social, Political and Legal Philosophy or Ethics and Values) with reference to major philosophers and relevant philosophical presuppositions.