ENGLISH (August 2006)

Literature, Writing Intensive, Teaching English
Upon completion of an English major, the graduate is able to:

1. Analyze literary texts or their equivalents (e.g. film).
2. Write convincing interpretive arguments of texts under consideration.
3. Explain how language and literary works shape their perceptions of themselves and their world.
4. (WINE majors only) Construct texts within specific creative and/or workplace genre conventions.
5. (TENG majors only) Demonstrate competency in content areas specified by the Department of Public Instruction.