NURSING  Ph.D. (August 2006)
At the completion of the Nursing Ph.D. degree program, the graduate is able to:

1. Develop knowledge for the discipline of nursing that will impact the health of vulnerable people or populations.

2. Apply teaching and learning principles in nursing education at the individual, course, and program levels.