

Michael Class, S.J.

Adjunct Assistant Professor

“I teach at Marquette University’s College of Professional Studies because I am enlivened by our adult students. Marquette’s Jesuit Catholic Mission is truly lived out in the lives of our students, who, like the founder of the Jesuits, St. Ignatius Loyola, return to school as an adult to acquire the skills they need to transform their lives and their community. I feel privileged to be able to bring my own educational background to our students and to grow and learn with them as they prepare themselves to achieve their dreams.”
