

JOHN D. KRUGLER

Professor

PhD, University of Illinois, 1971

British North American Colonies, Revolutionary America, Public History

NEW

Paperback publication of English and Catholic: The Lords Baltimore in Seventeenth-Century England and America (Baltimore: The Johns Hopkins University Press, 2008)

BOOKS

English and Catholic: The Lords Baltimore in Seventeenth-Century England and America (Baltimore: The Johns Hopkins University Press, 2004)

Introduction to Inquiry (Milwaukee: Marquette University Press, 2005) co-authored with John Pustejovsky

CURRENT RESEARCH

Present at the Creation: Developing Outdoor History Sites in Wisconsin and Maryland, 1958-1985 (under contract, Northern Illinois University Press)

RECENT PEER-REVIEWED ARTICLES

"The Calvert Vision: A New Model for Church-State Relations," Maryland Historical Magazine, 99 (Fall 2004), 269-286.

"An 'ungracious silence': The Calvert Vision and Historians," Maryland Historical Magazine, 99 (Fall 2004), 374-388.

"George Calvert: Courtier, Colonizer, Capitalist, Catholic," Avalon Chronicles, 6 (2001), 1-18.

AWARDS AND HONORS

Cross Bottony Award, Historic St. Mary City, 2006

John C. Geilfuss Fellowship, State Historical Society of Wisconsin, 1997

Faculty Award for Teaching Excellence, 1984

OTHER PROFESSIONAL ACTIVITIES

"Creating a Public History Program from Scratch: Cost Effective, but Necessary?" National Council of Public History Meeting, April 2007.

"The Lords Baltimore, Proprietary Authority, Political and Religious Liberty: The Maryland Experience, 1634-1692" and "Origins of the Godiah Spray Plantation," National Endowment for the Humanities Workshop: Life, Liberty, and Opportunity: The Struggle for Freedom in Tidewater Maryland, 1634-1865, Historic St. Mary's City, Maryland, June-July, 2005

Member, Old World Wisconsin Foundation Board of Trustees, 2005-Present

Commissioner, Historic St. Mary's City Commission, 1997-2005

Associate Dean, College of Arts & Sciences, 1993-1996

Assistant Chair, History Department, 1979-1993

Visiting Editor, The William and Mary Quarterly, 1989