

Stress Related to Immigration Status in Students

Join us for a presentation about critical topics related to detention, deportation and other immigration status-related stress affecting students in our schools.

Jacki Black and Lisa Edwards will present about critical topics related to documentation status and mixed-status families, detention and deportation, the effects of toxic stress on students, and suggestions for how school personnel can support youth and families in the context of this unique stressor.

Sponsored by:

The Latina/o Well-Being
Research Initiative

MARQUETTE
UNIVERSITY

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

MARQUETTE
UNIVERSITY

Office of Institutional
Diversity and Inclusion

Monday, February 19, 2018 from 4:30-5:30 pm in the Alumni Memorial Union on Marquette University's campus, room 163.

<https://goo.gl/XFKQ89>

Jacki Black is the Associate Director for Hispanic Initiatives in the Office of the Provost at Marquette University. Her focus is on strengthening community connections, pipelines, and support networks for Latinx and other underrepresented students at Marquette University.

Lisa M. Edwards, Ph.D., is a licensed psychologist and professor in the Department of Counselor Education and Counseling Psychology at Marquette University. In her role, she teaches and conducts research about multiculturalism and Latina/o psychology.