What to do with an English Major?

Don’t miss this opportunity to mingle with three successful Marquette alumni!

• They will discuss how studying English can lead to career opportunities.
• Stay for the reception afterward to meet the panelists in person and enjoy the camaraderie of fellow English lovers.
• All students (from every major) are welcome!

FAME Connects

➢ Wednesday, March 20, 2013
➢ 4:30-5:10 pm: Presentation
➢ 5:10-5:45 pm: Fellowship
➢ AMU 163

Carrie Bell, English ’06, Team Lead, Advertiser Services. Concurrent with her studies at Marquette, Carrie Bell was also a paralegal in United States Army Reserve. In April of 2003, her Reserve Unit, the 432nd Civil Affairs Battalion, deployed to Iraq in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom. After graduating form Marquette, Ms. Bell moved to Ann Arbor MI to work for Google. She currently lives in California and is a manager on Google’s SMB Services Team, where she coordinates the team’s ability to help advertisers with a myriad of Google products, including YouTube, Google Maps, and Google+.

Neha Glandt, English ’01, Grant Development Specialist. Neha Glandt has ten years of grant development and fundraising experience within small, medium and large nonprofit organizations. She is currently a grant specialist senior with Aurora Health Care, securing support for a variety of health care-related research projects. Prior to joining Aurora, Ms. Glandt worked at Boys & Girls Clubs of Greater Milwaukee for more than six years, most recently serving as resource development manager of grants for the past three years.

Jay Ponteri, English, ’94, Assistant Professor of English. Jay Ponteri directs the undergraduate creative writing program at Marylhurst University and show:tell, The Workshop for Teen Writers & Artists. He is the founding editor of both the online literary magazine M Review and HABIT Books, a publisher of prose and poetry chapbooks. His memoir, Wedlocked, is being published by Hawthorne Books, April 2013. His chapbook of short prose, Darkmouth Strikes Again, is being published by Future Tense Books, summer 2013. His essay “Listen to This” was mentioned as a Notable Essay in Best American Essays 2010. He has published prose in Del Sol Review, Seattle Review, Salamander, Cimarron Review, Puerto Del Sol, and Forklift, Ohio, among others.