1. Choose one artist whose work you like. What draws you to it? What do you like about their art?

2. Choose one artist whose work you don’t like. What don’t you like about their art?

3. What are your overall thoughts about the exhibition and the artists’ commentaries on consumerism? What aspects of their criticisms and/or thoughts do you agree with or find intriguing? Are there aspects you disagree with?
4. What are some different ways viewers might respond to this exhibition when forced to reflect on their role as consumers?

5. What is your favorite artwork in the Museum? Why is this your favorite artwork? What formal elements (color, line, texture, composition, space) do you recognize in this artwork and how do they contribute to your response as a viewer?