Dear faculty and students:

Hope you all are settling back into the routine of classes! This is the ninth edition of the research office e-newsletter to inform students and faculty of upcoming opportunities to present, publish, or enhance their research. If you would like to contribute to the newsletter, or have ideas for things to include in here, please send an e-mail to Pengpeng Wang.

For the PhD students, the spring semester is full of presentations. If you have any questions regarding how to get your poster ready for MNRS 2014 or the PhD Student Progress celebration, please do not hesitate to stop by our office and one of us will assist you in answering your questions.
