

Marquette Online Course Evaluation System (MOCES) Course Evaluation Confidentiality

Be assured that your individual responses to course evaluations are anonymous. Your instructor will only have access to aggregated results from the evaluation and the submitted comments, NEVER individual responses. The instructor cannot see individual responses nor can the instructor determine who submitted the comments (unless the student identifies him or herself in the comments). The instructor also does not know which students responded; the instructor only knows the number of responses and the total enrollment of the class.

The results of the course evaluations are not released until after all final grades for all classes have been submitted to the registrar. At that point, instructors will have access to the aggregated results of their evaluation and the student comments.
