The Schroeder Hall Performing Arts Living Learning Community (The PAC) is a living learning program open to sophomore students with an interest in the performing arts, providing students with the opportunity to interact with others who share similar interests in a welcoming environment.

Experience in or exposure to the performing arts (music, theater, dance, etc.) is not required. Prerequisites for membership in PAC are sophomore standing, an interest in and a desire to learn about the performing arts, and a willingness to actively participate in the community, embracing new experiences.

Living/learning programs are defined as programs organized to introduce and integrate academic and social learning in residence hall settings through faculty involvement with the goal of an enriched learning experience for all participants. The Performing Arts Living/Learning program is open to sophomores who have an interest in any of the performing arts: ballet, band, chorus, jazz, musical theatre, orchestra, plays, and spoken word. Participants would:

- Live together in Schroeder Hall.
- Enroll in “Survey of the Performing Arts” a two semester, 1.5 credit class that would be open only to program participants.
- Attend a minimum of 4 performances throughout the Marquette and Milwaukee communities.

The “Survey of the Performing Arts” course introduces the student to the experience of the performing arts and seeks to give an understanding of the history, cultural contexts and practices, and a deepening appreciation of the performing arts for members of the living/learning community. The primary focus will be on music, theater, and dance.

We are confident that these outcomes will be true for the Performing Arts Living/Learning Community and invite you to join us.
