Hello Philosophy Club!
The Philosophy Committee has finally met and have coordinated this semester's events.

The Laramie Project is playing here at Marquette. The Philosophy Department thought it would be a fun idea for us to meet as a group and see the play on Feb 24. If we have enough people and can acquire group seats, the Department is willing to comp 10 tickets. Its first come first serve, so if you would like to go please contact Melissa Shew.

We are excited for the first movie night this semester. Sean Comiskey will be leading the discussion. Do not forget to invite your friends! Popcorn and refreshments will be served.

Café Philo invites Dr. Starr to present a discussion on Ireland in holiday cheer of St. Patrick’s day. Café Philo will proceed with a discussion after Dr. Starr’s speech. Again popcorn, some snacks, and refreshments will be served.

Also welcome new members! We look forward to meeting everyone and having wonderful philosophical discussions!

We can get t-shirts for $6.00 if 24 people order. Send Tara Bozyk an email if you want a shirt. If 24 people confirm we will place the order.

What has happened thus far

FROM THE PHILOSOPHY DEPARTMENT:

- Dr. Foster is away this semester on sabbatical and Tim Crockett is taking over. Stop by and say hello to him!
- Coughlin Hall Room 139 is open for majors, minors, and club members to use as a study center. Take advantage of the Philosophy Commons!
- Do not forget to sign up for the Philosophy Honor society if you have above a 3.5 and 12 philosophy credits. Contact Jesse Reilly for more information.
- We have a blog. Post us! The blog site is at the top of the newsletter.
- The Philosophy Conference is this semester. Make sure to submit your papers by March 11. The winner will receive a $100 gift card. You can submit a paper on your choice of topic. For more information contact Melissa Shew.
