Undergraduate physics majors play an important role as salaried teaching assistants in the introductory physics labs. Not only do they improve their knowledge of physics and technical writing by teaching, they also acquire valuable skills in managing people and working in groups.

“Being a TA has enhanced my ability to explain introductory physics topics from different perspectives, which has solidified my understanding of it.”

-Kelsey Meinerz
MU 2014

Physics 1001

Physics 1003

Physics 1013

Arts and Sciences 1020

Physics Department
Teaching Assistants