Course Objectives:
The United States Congress is the oldest popularly elected legislature in the world.
Congress has the dual responsibility to represent the interests of the country’s citizens and to make law and policy for the nation; both of those roles will be studied closely, paying attention to historical context. The course will also look at Congress’ organization as a factor in its development, as well as Congress’ relationship with the other branches of government. Special attention will be paid to current issues in Congress, such as party polarization and the fall 2014 midterm elections.

Upon completing the course students will be able to identify and explain the powers of the U.S. Congress and the system of checks and balances between Congress and the other branches of government. Students will also be able to gather information from credible sources and be able to construct analytical arguments using clear, logical prose.

Required Book:

University Press.

Other readings will be available on D2L.

Course Requirements:

2 exams 40%
3 campaign essays 45%
Attendance/Participation 15%

Campaign Essays
Each student will become an expert in one state’s fall congressional races. We will have some sort of lottery to ensure that there is only one student per state. Students will use the knowledge of their state’s midterm races to write three essays on topics that will be discussed in class. Requirements for the essays will be distributed in class.

Exams
There will be a midterm and final exam. Any student who has an A grade at the end of the semester is exempt from the final exam. It cannot be borderline – it has to be a clear 93 or above. I know some of you will ask me to round up anyway, but the answer will be no.

Participation
Students are expected to do the readings before each class and contribute regularly to class discussion. Participation will be evaluated not simply on the quantity of class participation, but whether the participation reflects knowledge and understanding of course readings. Take note that participation is a consequential portion of the grade for the course.

Attendance
Attendance is expected at each class, and a sign-in sheet will be provided at each class meeting. Do NOT sign in for classmates if they are absent. Signing someone else’s name in their absence will be treated as academic dishonesty. If a student misses 6 or fewer classes during the semester attendance will not factor for the final grade at all. If a student misses more than 6 classes a grade of WA (Withdrawal-Excessive Absences) can be assigned.

The Marquette University Undergraduate Attendance Policy (revised in June 2011) states the following:

“Students are responsible for attending all class meetings for courses in which they are registered. Any absence, regardless of the reason, prevents students from getting the full benefit of the course and as such, no distinction is made between excused and unexcused absences, with the following exceptions:

1. Absences resulting from legal obligations (such as jury duty).
2. Absences resulting from university sanctioned activities and related travel.”

The Policy also states “the Marquette University Student Health Service does not provide documentation of illness, or of a visit to the Student Health Service. Likewise, college and other university offices (e.g., Office of the Dean, Counseling Center and Student Affairs) do not provide documentation of an absence on behalf of the student.”

In cases of excessive absences, the Marquette Undergraduate Attendance Policy will be followed. “For courses in which attendance is regularly taken, an instructor or college office may withdraw a student from a course due to excessive absences and assign a grade of WA (Withdrawn-Excessive Absences)... Students who miss more than 6 classes in a 3 credit course that meets 50 minutes, 3 times per week, will be considered to have excessive absences and may be assigned a WA.

Those who are involved in university sanctioned activities should submit a schedule of anticipated absences within the first 2 weeks of class, and also come talk to the instructor well in advance of any other university sanctioned activity that will result in a missed assignment/quiz/exam.
