

UNDERGRADUATE COURSE DESCRIPTION

Term: Fall 2010
Instructor: Alexander Huggard
Course #: THEO 1001
Sections: 109 and 118
Course Title: Introduction to Theology

Description:

This course will introduce the student to the Christian theological tradition through an examination of the key texts, teachings, and questions of Christianity. With each text, we will ask the questions, “What does this text say about God?” and “What does the text say about God’s relationship to humanity?” Students will be expected to demonstrate their ability to situate each source within its historical context and to engage each source’s contemporary implications. The goal of the course is to provide a foundation for future theological inquiry, both in the theology courses at Marquette and beyond. The course will require each student to be fully engaged in class discussion, write one 1500-word paper, and take two exams.
