UNDERGRADUATE COURSE DESCRIPTION

Term:       Fall 2016
Instructor:  Mark F. Johnson
Course #:    THEO 1001
Section:     132
Course Title: Introduction to Theology
Topic:       Basics, Thinking, World

Description:

This course provides the student with a first look at the building blocks of Christian thought, and, through those blocks, of the thinking and culture that the Christian religion produces. The course will be a blend of learning about the environment in which Christianity came to be, about its sacred texts (the Bible), and some key documents by key writers (Boethius, Anselm, and Thomas Aquinas). We will also look 'outside' the academic world to see how Christian thought and practice was spread and fortified through art.
