UNDERGRADUATE COURSE DESCRIPTION

Term: Spring 2012
Instructor: Danielle Nussberger, Ph.D.
Course #: THEO 2300
Sections: 102, 103
Course Title: Quests for God, Paths of Revelation

Description:

This course will take us on a journey of discovering what Christianity says about God on the basis of divine revelation, faith, and human rationality. Our discussion of these primary theological categories will necessarily take place within a contemporary milieu that probes Christianity from various vantage points, as we entertain questions arising from: 1) other religious traditions, 2) issues of human suffering, injustice, and violence, and 3) the framework of science and technology. In the raising of such questions, we will be learning the indispensable skills of authentic dialog that will facilitate a conversation of mutual growth and understanding.
