Term: Spring 2012
Instructor: Tom Harrington
Course #: THEO 4310/5310 (5310 component is restricted to graduate students)
Section: 101
Course Title: Theology of the Holy Spirit

Description:

This course will focus on the distinct person and mission of the Holy Spirit in the life of the triune God and the work of human salvation. Towards this end, with sources from the biblical witness, the Christian tradition, and the contemporary discussion, we will explore questions such as the relation of the Spirit to God, of the Spirit to Jesus Christ in particular and to humanity in general, and of the Spirit to the world.

The course has three primary goals: (1) to enable students to become conversant with the major forms of the doctrine of Holy Spirit and with notions of spirituality in both their historical development and current configurations; (2) to bring students to an understanding of the underlying logic shaping this doctrine in the tradition; and, (3) to help students begin to think through how Christian spirituality and the doctrine of the Holy Spirit might best be understood today.
