Ariana Gomez

Ariana is the founder and CEO of Technology for Impact, a next generation management consulting firm focused on stakeholder strategy and net-zero leadership powered by advanced social and environmental sciences, future foresight, ethical innovation and exponential technologies. She is an international speaker, board member and advisor to leading companies, institutional investors, government and global development organizations including Nike, Uber, Stripe, Google, the European Technology Chamber, Citigroup, MIT and the United Nations. She was named a Rising Talent by the Women's Forum for the Economy and Society in 2016. Former innovation and strategy executive at Visa, Bosch and Gentera. She previously worked for the World Bank, the UN and the World Resources Institute leading sustainable development and financial inclusion projects in Europe, Africa, Asia and Latin America. Ariana studied Philosophy, Politics and Economics at York University, followed by a Masters in Science in Development Studies from the London School of Economics and an MBA from IPADE. She has post graduate studies in artificial intelligence from MIT, management and leadership from Harvard, sustainability from Cambridge and is a Singularity University's Global Expert and member of the Institute for the Future.

Contact Information: arian@technologyimpact.com

David Carlin

David Carlin leads the TCFD and climate risk program for UNEP- Finance Initiative. He currently is running a pilot for nearly 50 global banks and investors on topics of climate scenarios, climate risk assessments, and climate governance. He is also a contributor to Forbes, where he writes about climate change and leadership.
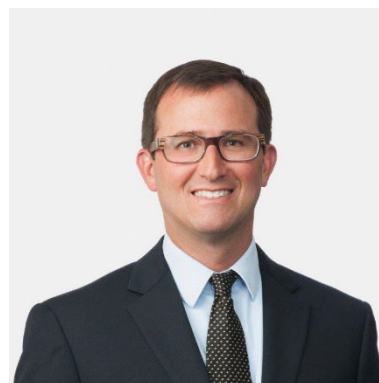

Prior to joining UNEP-FI, he worked as a senior manager in Risk and Public Policy for Oliver Wyman Consulting and in Model Risk Management for PNC Bank. His background is in quantitative modeling and decision science.

He conducted research in financial decision-making at Carnegie-Mellon University and graduated Phi Belta Kappa from Williams College.

Contact: David.carlin@un.org

Jason Lichtstein

Jason S. Lichtstein focuses his practice on the cleanup and redevelopment of brownfields and other contaminated sites in the Southeast U.S. A Florida and Georgia Bar member, his practice includes a broad range of environmental transactional, environmental regulatory compliance, and state incentives matters and in emerging environmental law and policy developments relating to Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG), climate change, and sustainability issues.

A two-time President of the Florida Brownfields Association (FBA), he has significant experience in the cleanup, redevelopment, reuse, and repurposing of brownfields and a wide variety of contaminated properties. He has also been involved in the drafting, lobbying, and passage of brownfields legislation, expanding incentives for site cleanup and redevelopment. Jason is a member of the Steering Committee of the National Brownfields Coalition.

Jason has been ranked as a leading environmental lawyer by various industry publications, including Chambers USA and Best Lawyers in America.

Contact: Jason.lichtstein@akerman.com

Michael Cohn

Mike is a Principal of Wolf and Director of the Strategic Management Services group. ERM Programs, ESG and Climate Risk mgmt., IT Strategy and governance, and Board Training highlight areas of focus; we help companies adjust their approach where the rate of change today will be the slowest for the rest of our lives. He is a member of the New Jersey Bankers ERM Committee, and Western Bankers ERM Committee. He is a graduate of Syracuse University with a BS in Accounting, and Babson College with an MBA, cum laude. He also holds a Certificate in Strategy and Innovation from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Contact: mcohn@wolfandco.com, Michael D. Chon, CPA, CISA, CGEIT, CERP, direct 617-428-5488