

Marquette University Philosophy Graduate Conference 2018:
Philosophy of Emotions
Saturday, March 24, 2018

(Events held in Marquette Hall, Room 105)

9:00 - 9:30: Coffee/Light Breakfast/Welcome

9:30 - 10:10: "Existential Guilt and Depressive Responsibility," Jake Jackson (Temple University)

Commentator: Daniel Adsett

10:10 - 10:50: "Loneliness as Social Disattunement," William Bell (Washington U.-St. Louis)

Commentator: Tyler Colwell

10:55 - 11:35: "Why Love Might Not Be an Emotion," Anna Mense (Justus-Liebig-University Giessen, Giessen, Germany)

Commentator: Alan Chavoya

11:40 - 12:20: "Blame, Moral Address, and Fictional Persons," Tom Hanauer (UC-Riverside)

Commentator: Sarah Kizuk

Lunch: 12:20-2:00

2:00 - 2:40: "Virtuous Anger and Vicious Forgiveness," Michael Thousand (U. Wisconsin-Milwaukee)

Commentator: Esther Meeks

2:40 - 3:20: "Hatred and the Contemporary," Scott Cowan (UC-Riverside)

Commentator: Jorge Montiel

3:25 - 4:05: "We Could Use a Good Cry: In Defense of Sadness in Political and Moral Life," Alex R. Steers-McCrum (CUNY Graduate Center)

Commentator: Nathaniel Taylor

Keynote Address

4:15 - 5:30: "Anger, Love, and Racial Justice," Myisha Cherry (U. Illinois-Chicago/UC-Riverside)

6:30: Conference Dinner

(Meet at Company Brewing, 735 E. Center. Contact Clark Wolf if you would like to join)

This event has been generously supported by the Marquette University Graduate School, the Friends of Philosophy Fund, and the Marquette Philosophy Department.