

INTRODUCING . . .

THE MARQUETTE FRESHMAN SEMINAR MARQ 1001: Enhancing First Year Student Success

The Marquette Freshman Seminar is designed to serve you as a semester-long orientation to life on Marquette's campus. The seminar will accompany you through this transition as a thorough introduction to all things Marquette—academics, campus life, Milwaukee and more.

This seminar is a one-credit class that meets for an hour each week and is led by an instructor who will act as a mentor to you and a small group of your classmates. The small group setting lends itself to detailed conversation each week as you journey into college, Milwaukee and life as a contemplative in action.

Seminar topics will have you exploring . . .

- Effective and efficient time management and study skills particular to college courses
- Marquette and Milwaukee communities with an eye toward serving those around you
- Campus and area resources for health, wellness, safety and recreation

At the seminar's conclusion, you will have honed . . .

- Your ability to effectively evaluate information and use it to advance your academic pursuits
- Both oral and written communication, which remain at the heart of all collegiate and professional exercises
- Your strategies for engaging with the Marquette and Milwaukee communities in meaningful and impactful ways

Interested? Register for MARQ 1001 during freshman course registration in July.
