I. AFFIRMATIVE ACTION PROGRAM FOR UNDERREPRESENTED MINORITIES AND WOMEN

Marquette University affirms its long-standing commitment to the principle of equal employment opportunity regardless of race, color, gender, age, sexual orientation, religion, disability, veteran’s status or national origin. Marquette affirms its commitment to the principle of affirmative action and its commitment to abide by Wis. Stat. § 16.765, and other applicable state or federal laws or regulations pertaining to equal employment opportunity and affirmative action during the life of a contract with the State of Wisconsin by not basing decisions on age, race, religion, color, handicap, sex, physical condition, developmental disability, sexual orientation, or national origin. It is Marquette’s policy that recruitment, employment, promotions, demotions, transfers, compensation, training, terminations, and other personnel decisions will be made to achieve a balanced work force, in accordance with the principles of equal employment opportunity and affirmative action. An Affirmative Action Officer/Equal Opportunity Coordinator is designated within the Department of Human Resources, and along with senior university personnel, is responsible for planning and implementing the Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity Plan. At the time of this writing, the title of Affirmative Action Officer is held by Elizabeth Sides, Director of Employment and Employee Relations at Marquette.

While Marquette does not discriminate in any manner contrary to law or justice in its educational programs or activities, including employment and admissions practices, it cherishes the right and duty to seek and retain personnel who will make a positive contribution to its religious character, goals and institutional mission of Excellence, Faith, Leadership and Service.

As Marquette is a religious educational institution with Jesuit tradition, sponsorship, and support, it reserves the right to maintain its heritage and identity as a Christian and Catholic witness in higher education. As a religious educational institution, the University may grant preference to Jesuits in its employment practices.

The Marquette University Statement on Human Dignity and Diversity sets forth the philosophy, policy and practices related to institutional diversity, justice and human dignity that is an integral part of the Marquette mission. The University's Affirmative Action Officer/Equal Opportunity Coordinator will be given the necessary senior management support to execute or assign a designee the following responsibilities including, but not necessarily limited to, the following:

a. Developing policy statements, affirmative action programs, and internal and external communications.

b. Assisting University leaders in the identification of problem areas and recommending

A. The Affirmative Action Officer/Equal Opportunity Coordinator or designee will be responsible for the preparation of the work force analysis, job group analysis, and utilization analysis for all positions. Applicant flow data and analyses of hiring, promotions and terminations will also be included. Where problems are identified within a specific area, recommendations will be made to address and resolve them. Where appropriate, recommendations to broaden and strengthen efforts to increase opportunities for women and underrepresented minority group members, which are consistent with federal and state laws, will be included.

D. On a periodic basis, the University Leadership Council will be updated on the status of the Affirmative Action Program and will receive recommendations from the Vice President of Human Resources, as necessary, relative to achieving compliance with the goals and objective of the program.

Affirmative Action Goals and Steps

The university has implemented procedures and processes to perform detailed analysis of its total employment process to determine whether, and where, impediments to equal employment opportunity and affirmative action may exist within the organization. Systems are in place to evaluate the following:

A. The overall workforce by organizational unit and job group to determine whether there are problems related to minority or female utilization (employment within a specific unit or group), or of minority or female distribution (placement in the different job groups within the unit or group).
B. Personnel activity, including applicant flow, hires, terminations, promotions, and related personnel actions to determine whether there are selection disparities.
C. Compensation systems and practices to determine whether there exists gender, race, or ethnicity-based disparities.
D. Selection, recruitment, referral, and other personnel procedures to determine whether they result in disparities in the employment or advancement of minorities or females.
E. Hiring managers processes and procedures regarding job postings. Working with and verifying hiring managers are recruiting in a way that reaches a more divers candidate pool.
F. Any and all other areas or practices that might have a negative influence on the goals and the success of the university’s affirmative action program.
G. Failure by any faculty and staff member to adhere to Marquette University’s Affirmative Action policy may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination.

Specific Problem Areas Identified:

Underutilization of Minority and Women in Faculty Positions While Marquette is committed to eliminating underutilization of women and minorities in faculty positions, student demographics and fluctuating enrollments, financial constraints, Jesuit emphasis in hiring, and the large number of tenured faculty in some departments, may not permit immediate achievement of established goals. Along with other universities, Marquette experiences fluctuations in overall enrollment and in enrollment in specific colleges and programs from year to year. As a result of this, the number of available positions may change. Further, the general overall financial constraints currently being felt by institutions of higher education have, to some extent, affected the affirmative action efforts of Marquette. While Marquette offers competitive salaries, it cannot compete with many governmentally sponsored institutions of higher education or some independently sponsored institutions which are more extensively endowed, nor can the University presume to compete with industry and governmental agencies also involved with recruiting from all sections of the population, including doctoral degree candidates. Marquette is firmly committed to the preservation of the existing relationship between the University and the Jesuits in its academic and administrative hiring policies. As a result of Marquette’s valid preference for Jesuits in some positions, the number of openings available for women and minorities may be fewer. In spite of these obstacles, Marquette continues its commitment to meet goals which are targets of good faith efforts, and to create an institutional workforce which maximizes the employment opportunities for women and minorities in faculty positions.

Underutilization of Minorities and Women in Craftworker Positions
Marquette has a small, dedicated staff of general maintenance workers. Due to the small number of positions, the opportunities to increase the number of minorities and women in this job group have been limited due to a relatively small number of openings and the competition for qualified females and minorities in the skilled craft area.

Underutilization of Minorities and Women in Service Positions
The positions within these job groups have traditionally attracted a higher number of qualified male applicants. The positions in these job groups include Police Officer, Maintenance Mechanic, Truck Drivers, Groundskeepers, and Custodians. Qualified female and minority applicants are encouraged to apply.

Underutilization of Minorities in Office and Clerical Positions
The variance in this area is slight and has not been an issue in past analyses. This job group will be monitored to ensure the hiring practices encourage qualified minority applicants and hires.

Action-Oriented Programs
The university has in place specific programs, practices and policies which are designed to address and correct any problem areas that are identified out of the process listed above (Identification of Problem Areas) and to assist in reaching established plan goals and objectives. These policies and practices are in place to assist in achieving positive results, an ongoing improvement over previous results and a removal of identified barriers to reaching identified plan goals and producing measurable results.

1. Selection Process for New or Vacant Positions
The university’s policy on Position Requisitions is contained in UPP 4-23 and is summarized below:

The Position Requisition is an online process used to authorize a new position or to preauthorize the filling of an existing vacant position for staffing, budget and headcount purposes. The Position Requisition Policy is an integral part of Marquette University’s Human Resource and Finance Office Policy and is required for compliance with the University’s Affirmative Action Program. All positions (faculty and non-faculty) require an approved online requisition be completed via https://employment.marquette.edu/ before an individual is hired to fill that open position. The online requisition is reviewed by the Department of Human Resources to ensure that job descriptions are current and job-related; requested application materials and questions are job-related and consistent with business necessity; and that recruitment plans are congruent with the goals of the Affirmative Action Program. All recruiting advertisements, including notices, letters and on-line postings will indicate where space and budget allow that “Marquette University does not discriminate in any manner contrary to law or justice on the basis of race, color, gender, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, disability or veteran’s status in its educational programs or activities, including employment and admissions. At the same time, Marquette cherishes its right and duty to seek and retain personnel who will make a positive contribution to its religious character, goals and mission.” Where space and/or budget do not allow, the following statement is to be used “Marquette is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer.” or “AA/EOE.” The Department of Human Resources evaluates the total selection process on an ongoing basis to ensure freedom from bias, to recommend techniques to improve recruitment of minority and female applicants and ensure congruence with our Affirmative Action Program and goals.

The university has created a toolkit to provide Marquette employees with the opportunity to examine issues of diversity, equity, and inclusion as they relate to hiring practices on our campus.

2. Record Keeping
Search process documentation and materials will be available in the online applicant tracking software, https://employment.marquette.edu/ including application materials, recruitment plan, and disposition of candidates. Other records pertaining to the search process will be maintained by the hiring departments.

3. Internal Candidates for Employment
Recognizing the University’s desire to encourage the personal, spiritual and professional development of its current employees, as outlined in University Policies and Procedures 04-5, the University may conduct an internal search exclusively when a vacancy occurs, (although an external search may also be conducted concurrently, when appropriate), when it is determined that a single qualified candidate, or a number of qualified candidates, exist internally.

4. Jesuit Presence
While Marquette University is firmly committed to and reaffirms its policy of nondiscrimination and affirmative action in its recruitment practices, it also reserves its right to grant preference to persons who will advance its Jesuit and Catholic identity as established within the educational traditions of the Society of Jesus. This it must do to exercise its religious and educational mission and maintain its institutional integrity. As a Jesuit university, Marquette will therefore consider the candidate’s expressed willingness and ability to support and carry out the university’s stated mission as a key criterion in the hiring process of all employees. In addition, the University will weigh the candidate’s willingness to understand and engage Catholic intellectual and social tradition as a pertinent consideration in the appointment of faculty and administrators. Marquette may grant preference in its employment practices to members of the Society of Jesus. For example, the University may favor a qualified Jesuit applicant over a qualified non-Jesuit applicant for an academic or administrative position. To preserve the existing relationship between the University and the Society of Jesus, recruiting efforts will include notification of the Office of Mission and Ministry of faculty and administrative vacancies as they occur. If such vacancies can be filled by a fully qualified Jesuit, no further affirmative action efforts will be required.

5. Compensation Systems
The university seeks to offer fair, equitable and competitive compensation to all its employees. Compensation will be set within the guidelines established by the University’s wage and salary system for all exempt and non-exempt non-faculty employees on an individual basis and will be based on appropriate factors including skills, experience, length of service, merit, and position held. Marquette University is committed to maintaining a compensation program that is both internally and externally equitable and non-discriminatory. Compensation for faculty will be set within each department on an individual basis in response to “market” factors. The Provost annually will review the compensation of faculty to determine whether or not discrepancies exist in the area. If a thorough analysis of any faculty position at the University reveals an employee’s compensation is adversely affected as a result of unlawful discrimination, appropriate corrective action will be taken.

Compensation of staff positions are based on the Department of Human Resources wage and salary program which includes the following:

1. Current job descriptions or position evaluation questionnaires as a basis for classifying, evaluating, and categorizing jobs. These job descriptions will be used to:
   a. Indicate actual responsibilities and actual duties.
   b. Clearly identify required qualifications, experience, and necessary skills, as well as essential functions, of the job itself.
   c. Establish classification of positions.
   d. Establish job groups for administrative, professional, clerical, technical, skilled crafts, and service maintenance positions.
2. A position evaluation/grading system based upon the duties, levels of responsibility and qualifications of the positions.
3. A wage and salary structure which includes separate job groups with approximately the same level of responsibility and value to the University and applies a wage range to each respective job group.
4. Wage and salary adjustments on an annual basis by use of internal performance evaluations and external market survey data to maintain competitive wages and salaries and competitive compensation for duties performed.

The Vice President of Human Resources or his/her representative will work with the Senior Vice President and Chief Operating Officer to periodically evaluate the university’s compensation program and practices and to make remedial recommendations for individuals or positions that are either low or inappropriately classified, within the financial and budgetary capabilities of the institution.

6. Sexual Harassment and Racial Abuse and Harassment Policies
The University seeks to provide its students, employees and members of its community an academic and working environment in which the dignity and worth of each member of its community is respected, and has established the Sexual Harassment and Sex Discrimination and Non-Discrimination policies which offer guidelines and protections. They are intended to reinforce the proper conduct and professional manner expected of members of the University community and especially of those who participate in relationships of academic and professional trust. Students and employees are expected to follow and support the policies.

II. AFFIRMATIVE ACTION PROGRAM FOR INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES

For purposes of this section a person with a disability is defined as any person who (1) has a physical or mental impairment which substantially limits one or more of such person's major life activities, (2) has a record of such impairment or (3) is regarded as having such an impairment. For purposes of this section, a person with a disability is "substantially limited" if he or she is likely to experience difficulty in securing, retaining, or advancing in employment because of a disability.

Policy

Marquette University, in accordance with Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as well as the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990, as amended is committed to maintaining an affirmative action program to employ and advance in employment qualified individuals with disabilities at all levels of employment, including the executive level. Such action will apply to all employment practices, including, but not limited to, hiring, upgrading, demotion or transfer, recruitment or recruitment advertising, layoff or termination, rates of pay or other forms of compensation, and selection for training.

Persons with disabilities who wish to declare themselves under the Section 503 Affirmative Action Program and/or the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990, as amended, will be invited to voluntarily identify themselves to the University. The opportunity to disclose information will be voluntary and all disclosed information will be kept confidential.

Personnel processes will be reviewed and analyzed to assure careful, thorough, and systematic consideration of the job qualifications of known applicants and employees with disabilities for job vacancies filled either by hiring or promotion, and for all training opportunities offered or available. Physical and mental job qualification requirements for employment selection, promotion, demotion, and training will not discriminate against qualified applicants and employees with disabilities. Marquette will review physical or mental job qualification requirements on an ongoing basis and as new job qualification requirements are established to ensure that, to the extent qualification requirements tend to screen out qualified individuals with disabilities, they are related to the essential functions of the job for which the individual is being considered and consistent with business necessity and the safe performance of the job. After review, the job qualifications will be available to those involved in recruitment, screening, selection, and promotion processes.

The University, as a policy and practice, will make reasonable accommodations to qualified employees with disabilities in all cases, unless such accommodations impose an undue or unusually serious hardship on the University, as allowed by law.

Whenever the University has information about an applicant's or employee's physical or mental condition or conducts a medical examination following a job offer or change in employment status, such information will be kept confidential except that (a) supervisors and administrators may be informed regarding restrictions on the work or duties of individuals with disabilities and regarding accommodations; (b) first aid and safety personnel may be informed, where and to the extent appropriate, if the condition might require emergency treatment; and (c) to government officials investigating compliance, as allowed by law.

Responsibility for Administration and Implementation | Internal & External Dissemination

The Vice President of Human Resources will be responsible for the oversight of the development, implementation and periodic evaluation of activities designed to achieve the goals of the affirmative action program for employees with disabilities at Marquette University. The Director of Employment and Employee Relations is also the university’s ADA Workplace Coordinator. Responsibilities will specifically include the following:

1. Implement policy, affirmative action programs and internal and external communication techniques which include regular communication with leaders and employees to be certain the University's policies are known and adhered to.

2. Advise leaders that (a) their work performance includes compliance with the university’s equal opportunity and affirmative action policy, as well as other criteria and (b) the University is obligated to prevent harassment of employees through our affirmative action efforts and by educating leaders on policy.

3. Ensure that equal employment opportunity materials are displayed in public places accessible to employees and applicants.

4. Review and update the Affirmative Action Program for Persons with Disabilities regularly and retain a copy for on-site inspection upon request.

5. Inform leaders about the University's obligation to comply with Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990, as amended, and solicit their support.

6. Implement and monitor audit and reporting systems that will:
   a. Measure the effectiveness of Marquette University's programs.
   b. Indicate need for remedial action, when necessary.
   c. Determine the degree to which Marquette’s objectives have been attained and what additional affirmative action efforts are needed.

7. Serve as a liaison between Marquette and organizations of and for persons with disabilities and arrange for the active involvement by University representatives in community service programs of local organizations for the disabled.

8. Arrange for career counseling for known employees with disabilities when it is requested.

9. Conduct other proactive outreach measures to assist with the recruitment of qualified applicants with disabilities to open job positions at Marquette under this program

III. AFFIRMATIVE ACTION PROGRAM FOR SPECIAL DISABLED VETERANS, VIETNAM ERA VETERANS & active-duty wartime or campaign badge veteran

For purposes of this section, “disabled veteran” means a person entitled to disability compensation under laws administered by the Veterans Administration for disability rated at 30 percent or more, or a person who was discharged or released from active duty because of a service-connected disability.

A “Vietnam Era veteran” is defined as a person who (1) served on active duty for a period of more than 180 days, any part of which occurred between February 28, 1961 and May 7, 1975 in the Republic of Vietnam and was discharged or released therefrom with other than a dishonorable discharge, or (2) was discharged or released from active duty for a service-connected disability if any part of such active duty was performed between August 5, 1964 and May 7, 1975 in all other cases.

Policy Statement (To be posted on university bulletin boards, physical & electronic)

Marquette University, in compliance with the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974, as amended (38 U.S.C. 4212, or VEVRAA), does not discriminate in its employment practices against disabled veterans, Vietnam Era veterans, or other covered veterans. Marquette historically has been committed to promoting equal employment opportunities for all persons with disabilities and has affirmed the commitment in its Affirmative Action Program for Persons with Disabilities. Under the provisions and regulations of VEVRAA, Marquette affirms its commitment and obligations to take affirmative action to employ and advance in employment all qualified persons with disabilities including disabled veterans. Marquette further commits itself to promote equal employment opportunities for Vietnam Era veterans and all other covered veterans. It will treat such veterans without discrimination in all employment practices including, but not limited to, hiring, upgrading, demotion or transfer, recruitment, or recruitment advertising, lay-off or termination, rates of pay or other forms of compensation, and selection for training, including traineeships and on-the-job training programs. An affirmative action clause will be included in all applicable contracts and subcontracts. Marquette University will invite all disabled veterans, veterans of the Vietnam Era, and other covered veterans at the time of application to self-identify themselves on a voluntary and confidential basis.

Review of Employment Processes

Human Resources processes will be reviewed to assure careful, thorough, and systematic consideration of the job qualifications of known disabled veterans, Vietnam Era veterans, and other covered veteran applicants for job vacancies filled either by hiring or promotion, and for all training opportunities offered or available. Established university policies prohibit the harassment of any employee, including veterans identified under this section.

Physical and Mental Qualifications

Physical and mental job qualification requirements of employment selection, promotion, demotion, and training will not discriminate against qualified disabled veterans. Marquette University will conduct ongoing reviews of physical or mental job qualification requirements to ensure that the requirements are related to the essential functions of the job for which the individual is being considered and are consistent with business necessity and the safe performance of the job. After review, the job qualifications will be available to the leaders involved in recruitment, screening, selection and the promotion process. The University will also make reasonable physical and mental accommodations to qualified covered veterans unless such accommodations impose a serious and undue hardship. All such information shall be maintained by the employer on a confidential basis.

Training

All university personnel involved in the recruitment, screening, selection, promotion, disciplinary and related processes will be trained in university policies and practices to ensure that the commitments outlined in this affirmative action plan are implemented. Such training will consist of online programs, programs offered through the internal GROW professional development program, sessions conducted by the Department of Human Resources, general orientation programs and others.

Responsibility for Implementation

The Director of Employment and Employee Relations will be designated as the director of affirmative action activities for disabled veterans, veterans of the Vietnam Era and other covered veterans. The Director’s name will appear on internal and external communications regarding the University’s Affirmative Action Program for Disabled Veterans, Veterans of the Vietnam Era, and Other Covered Veterans. The Director, as the Affirmative Action Officer, will develop policy statements, affirmative action programs and internal and external communications related to this program.

Internal Dissemination of Policy

The university has put into place internal written communication, practices and procedures designed to fully implement and communicate the institution’s affirmative action program for disabled veterans, veterans of the Vietnam era and other covered veterans. These communications include inclusion in all employee handbooks, official university policies, training programs geared toward leaders, new employee orientation programs conducted monthly by the Department of Human Resources, with the collective bargaining agreements representing Marquette’s custodial and police officer employees, and other methods of internally communicating the program to members of senior leadership and Marquette employees in general.

In addition, the University, through its Department of Human Resources, will implement internal audit and reporting mechanisms designed to measure the effectiveness of the program, indicate and follow up on any identified need for remedial actions, assess the degree to which stated program objectives have been met, determine whether identified veterans are being offered the opportunity to participate in all university held educational, training, recreational and social activities and measure the university’s overall compliance with the program’s specific obligations. In the event deficiencies are identified, they shall be addressed and remedied in an expedient manner.

External Dissemination of Policy

In complying with and administering the goals and obligations of this program, the university will make good faith efforts to undertake appropriate outreach and proactive recruitment activities in an attempt to effectively recruit and retain qualified disabled veterans, veterans of the Vietnam era and other covered veterans into its workforce.

The university will make a good faith effort to engage in the following activities:

1.) Enlist the assistance of local representatives from the Department of Veterans Affairs as well as local veteran’s groups in the recruitment of, and on-the-job training of, qualified veterans for jobs at Marquette.

2.) In recruiting efforts, incorporate efforts to reach candidates who are covered veterans to ensure the application process is accessible, e.g., making written materials, such as the employment application, available in alternate formats, or assisting veterans with disabilities in completing application materials when necessary.

3.) Practice positive outreach to resource organizations, including veteran’s groups, for support and assistance in the University’s efforts to recruit and hire qualified veterans.

4.) Other proactive outreach measures to assist with the recruitment of qualified applicants to open job positions at Marquette under this program.

HOW TO FILE AN EMPLOYMENT OR SERVICE DELIVERY DISCRIMINATION COMPLAINT

If you feel that you have been treated differently because of your age, race, religion, color, sex, national origin or ancestry, disability, or association with a person with a disability, arrest or conviction record, sexual orientation, marital status or pregnancy, political belief or affiliation, a military participation, or use or nonuse of lawful products off the employers or service providers premises during working hours, you may file a complaint. If you were wrongfully denied services, or if the treatment you received was separate or different from others, or if the program was not accessible to you, it may be discrimination.

IMPORTANT: If your application for service was not taken or you were told you were not eligible for a particular program BUT you feel you are eligible, ask the provider for a pamphlet which explains how to request a local agency appeal process or state administrative hearing review. Your right to this review or hearing does not need to be connected to a discrimination complaint.

You may file an informal discrimination complaint with your employer or service provider, or you may file a formal discrimination complaint with a state or federal agency. No one may threaten or harass you for making a complaint. No one may threaten or harass your witnesses because they are willing to say that they saw, heard, or experienced items related to the complaint.

All formal complaints must be filed within 300 days of the event or treatment you feel was discrimination. However, you should file the complaint as soon as possible after the action took place. If you file an informal complaint and you are not satisfied with the resolution, you can still file a formal complaint as long as you do it within filing time frame. Do not wait until after the filing deadline to get an answer to the informal complaint if you plan to make a formal complaint.

To file an informal discrimination complaint with your provider or employer, request a discrimination complaint form by calling Elizabeth Sides, the University’s Affirmative Action Officer/EEO Coordinator, at (414) 288-0830, located in the Department of Human Resources, the 313 Building, Suite 221.

Send the completed form back to Elizabeth Sides, the university’s Affirmative Action Officer/EEO Coordinator, at humanresources@marquette.edu; fax (414) 288-7425; or The Department of Human Resources, the 313 Building, Suite 221.

If you wish to file a formal discrimination complaint, you may send the completed complaint form directly to the appropriate state or federal agency listed on the following pages. Include a letter stating that you are making a formal complaint to their agency as the funding source.
