

Call for Submission: “La vie comme phénomène. Variations phénoménologiques / Life as a Phenomenon. Phenomenological Variations”

The journal Études Phénoménologiques / Phenomenological Studies is seeking submissions in English and French for its second 2017 issue on the topic “Life as a Phenomenon. Phenomenological Variations / La vie comme phénomène. Variations phénoménologiques”

Deadline: February 1, 2017

Possible topics include, but are not limited to:

The notion of Erlebnis (Dilthey, Husserl, and others)

The concept of Lebenswelt

The phenomenology of life (the early Heidegger, Hans Jonas, Ortega y Gasset, and others)

Life and hermeneutics (Gadamer, Ricoeur, and others)

The life of consciousness (Transcendental life, the status of the biological in human experience, brain and life)

Études Phénoménologiques / Phenomenological Studies is a new yearly peer-reviewed journal publishing articles in French and English both in print and online. The journal follows the same spirit of openness to various perspectives that was to be found in Études Phénoménologiques, which was founded in 1985 by Jacques Taminiaux who remained its editor until 2008 (Éditions Ousia). Its publication is the result of a collaboration between the Centre d'Études phénoménologiques at the Université catholique de Louvain and the Department of Philosophy at Marquette University.

The journal is dedicated to the general task of showing the relevance and fruitfulness of phenomenology for contemporary issues in philosophy and to be a forum for contemporary discussion of such issues. One of its goals is to bridge the gap between history and philosophy, between continental and analytic philosophy, and between theory and application.

Submissions should be original, not submitted elsewhere, and prepared for blind review.

Manuscripts should not exceed 9,000 words (60, 000 characters), including notes and references, a brief abstract (150-200 words), and 5 keywords in English to be placed at the beginning of the paper.

Manuscripts should be submitted in Microsoft Word format (.doc or .docx) or Rich Text Format (.rtf) in 12 point Times New Roman font (no PDF formats) with all margins of 1 inch (or 2,5 cm), using the “Author, Date, Page number” system with a list of references at the end of the paper.
