I have attended trainings to grow as a leader, one of them being the TRAC 2 training as an RHA Representative last year. I learned a lot about how to form an inclusive and warm community. The second one allowed me to arrive at school two weeks early and attend an intense and thorough training for RAs on how to include residence and listen to them and their needs. These two experiences have given me the knowledge and tools necessary to lead a CPC. Being involved in CPC has taught me a lot about what college students want. Straz Tower
Kira Dynkowski	RHA Representative )	I was a member of CPC last year in Abbotsford and I truly enjoyed the process of coming up with ideas about events that the entire building could participate in and I look forward to doing the same this year. I look forward to coming up with new and creative ideas for events that take place and giving input about ideas that are brought up by my peers. My hope is that if we do plan events that word would get out to the building leaving people time to come to the events and have fun and meet new people.

Rachel Lovell	CPC Chairperson	It's harder to find a more positive person than me! If you choose me as chairperson, you can expect a wide variety of fun-filled, feel-good, inclusive events. I've been in leadership roles since freshman year of high school, planning events such as retreats and being an assistant director for the theater program, as well as coordinating music for performances and choreographing theater dances. Reis Schweiner	Vice Chairperson	I would like the voters to know that I am very easy to communicate with, have experience in leadership positions, and willing to work on behalf of the student population in university housing to ensure the events that they want to see happen. These traits will allow me to stay connected to the students that I will represent and help lead the CPC group to plan events that interest all students. I believe that I have the credentials that will allow me to be successful in this position. Last year, I was a member of Civic Engagement which was a program for students to get involved and make a difference in the community and help people in need of assistance. In Civic Engagement, I was a project leader for a Chicken Wing Eating fundraiser that raised over $7,000 which helped students pay for school supplies and also led a project that raised over $20,000 to renovate a park downtown. This experience will translate to success in a CPC board position because I understand how to interact with the individuals I represent and am willing to take the necessary actions to have events that the students are interested in.

Being an RHA representative for Mashuda Hall last semester has been one of my favorite experiences so far at Marquette. It would be an honor to become an RHA representative again but this time, for McCabe! With a new challenge of representing an apartment, I want to create a more welcoming, friendly, and cozy community with CPC and RHA so residents can feel safe and comfortable within their apartment. I believe I can initiate engaging ideas and fun events in order to build a more inclusive community.
